The prostitute's parenting consulted deaths

Like Homer's infamous written scripts of tragedies, there are sufficient in our country and all over the world, being sexual is a sensible issue with everybody. There are only a thin line apart between prostitution and having sex with multi people for recreationally. One will be doing it to support family or to fund for their needs and others do it at their own expense and to satisfy their desire that rock the world like a Trojan horse inside the Troy palace. There are many old tales of what caused the majority of women or seldom have men and the effect taken its place by them turning their torment into a profession. I'm not going to tell you about why prostitutes are bad for our society or perhaps why they are in the worse class of hoodlums or any term that you can come to think of! The story I will be telling; to this day still shook the small town in England with plenty of shocks and people trembles when thinking about how they remember the person whom were a daughter of a prostitute and turned into a killer. Enter Mary Bell, the 10 then 11 years old girl who killed two young children.

I will get to the story in a bit. The most cases of prostitution have been divided in statistics for variety kinds of abuse. The most common knowledge of statistics are that the prostitutes are likely to become a prostitute mainly due to being molested as a child, perhaps they got kidnapped and trained to become one. Heck, every bit of imaginary of the concept about prostitute is pretty same, they probably have sexual transmitted-disease, small bad (bad hygiene), aren't as intelligent as the norms and etc. Like a 12-years old boy playing football with a bunch of fifteen years old boys; I just want to be here and defy the odds. The story begin with a Christian woman, Betty Bell who were raised in a family with appearing normal parents until when she was sixteen she had Mary Bell. The story goes downward from there as there is no reliable source for who was the father, rumored to be a persistent career criminal, Billy Bell who later married Betty after Mary was born. Billy was inside the prison as much he was outside so he never was the father figure to begin with, Betty turned to prostitution as a profession however, this wasn't the case to "support her family and to put the food on table" but rather her preference.

Living in Newcastle, a really poor neighbor in England where there are many remaining deconstructed buildings from World War II and Betty would travel to Glasgow in England to work (prostitution) and would many times, tried to give up Mary to her family and were persistently neglecting Mary as Mary become a two-legged child afterward the four-legged crawling baby. The impact of child neglect is greater than anybody would have guessed; you don't have to be sexually abused as a child to become a traumatized or troubled person in future. I will elaborate on the cause and effect of prostitution. Mary was a psychopath child who henceforth, strangled a boy a day before her birthday and killed other one later. Mary was a very troubled child who showed a lot of detached emotions, literally no emotional response to hearing people talking about a death of little boy. The second child Mary slaughtered by the construction zone, Martin Brown- after Martin's death and her mother was vividly upset. Mary Bell once visited her and as Mary looked up into Martin Brown's mother, June Richardson' sadden eyes and snipped with a dark smirk, said "Do you miss your son?" She was considerably upset and kicked Mary out, many children become afraid of Mary and her not quite intelligent friend, Norma Bell who was basically a Robin to the Batman.

When actually caught and put into the interrogation room, Mary showed no misery and answered every question with swift responses. Mary later was found guilty with two charges of manslaughter and confiscated into all-boys detention home. Sometime later in the documentary video I watched (http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=moFhGzE_xRI), the interview with Betty have gave me more interest in what, why, how Mary, an intelligent child who are very comfortable within her peers have been secretly a psychopath and killed two young boys? In the video, the interview was very... vaguely, she seem to be slurring and well-drained emotionally. She seem to resent Mary as her own but at same time at other source of mine, she tried to reel Mary into write her some crazy tales and poems so she could sell for her own benefits. It became more clearly, as Mary hit the puberty, she became an adolescent and in one of her letter she wrote a very hateful letter toward her biological mother: resenting her not being there for Mary as she grow and she blamed greatly on mother's profession, prostitution. Mary's conscience seems to become clearer as she ages even though if she continued the disturbing behaviors in her late teens. Question remaining, which is more of a greater deal; the cause or effect of Mary's behavior?

Upon the research I took on child abuse, it was profoundly shocking as the statistics showed child neglect surpassing every other category of abuse at 78.3% where the next closest abuse is physical abuse at 18.3% (<http://www.childhelp.org/pages/statistics>). The sexual abuse only comes at 9.3% I'm trying to connecting all the dots between Mary Bell's disturbing behaviors and Betty Bell's profession. In few biographies, Betty's family stated that she would try to give up Mary at every turn, Mary would be stranded at home for her just to go out and play whereabouts and as she please. It is a good argumentative statement that the poverty played a role, within profession, education, and child neglect. Many have a misconception about the prostitution as many would foresee them as victims, when at the most cases they were victims but not in the sake of their choice of professions as most of the time it was their own choice. Now, the tricky part of writing this and confirming my stand on their choice; as the statistics showed, they usually were kidnapped, recruited, and trained to become one and in their cases can you really say they chosen to be, not forced upon their will? I can't determine this, especially when I'm a college student writing the paper with many assumptions and estimates. I try my best with my observation toward the many factoids as I can discover, I divine the traumas and consequences of cause and effect.

Growing up in a Catholic culture, I have discovered the many dark demons within the community and church. I realize my position and staring down at the picture of Mary Bell. I have to ask myself, "Were Betty molested as a child?" What about, Mary Bell? Just because what's not said, doesn't mean it didn't happen. I'm amazed by how many times the child abuse occurred and it'll be left unsaid. Could have somebody prevented the children from such tragedy, a system perhaps where they create a Voight-Kampff like exam? I learned the meaning of Voight-Kampff from watching the movie "Blade Runner" but it is an interesting concept, an exam to create a situation and scenario of tragedies or sadness and you have to stimulate with an emotional reaction, in the movie the purpose of test was to determine whether you are a clone or human. Fortunately we aren't clones and I also realized that the test Voight-Kampff can be defeated by somebody like Mary bell. I thought, "Great now what?" I'm sadden by the day my child will be born laid onto the Earth and Water of this world, the demonic people that exists in the world but I know for sure about one thing: tragedy or not, I might be able to prevent it or reduce the possibilities but in the end I will have to be the parent to hold them on dearly when they got hurt and let them know I love them no matter what, nothing will set anyone apart. Prostitution, I think it have become a culture, not rather a sex/rape culture but rather a ripple effect from being a born-raised in the poverty.

Great comparisons to begin with; there are many male-prostitutes who hang out at golf, county clubs who reclaim the term “male escort” and not a prostitute. How they do it, is how they view it not how we see it. "Brian Howe had no mother, so he won't be missed." "Murder isn't that bad, we all die sometime anyway",(<http://murderpedia.org/female.B/b/bell-mary-flora.htm>). All came out Mary Bell's mouth; he showed no misery for the deaths of children. In my opinion, I hold Betty Bell accountable for the influence of prostitution and child neglect upon Mary Bell which becomes a stronger effect than many would think. Mary Bell now herself is a grandmother, due to the court request of anomaly; her own children have been provided security with anonymous names so they won't be targets in people eyes (<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-1110123/Child-killer-Mary-Bell-grandmother-51-But-I-left-grief-says-victims-mother.html>). I have to wonder can the court assure the safety of Mary Bell's children and even grandchildren, I know if it was up to my call, I wouldn't have gave the permit of breeding children but not for the sake of a murderer's bloodline but for the sake of public's conformity. Bottom-line, I think we shouldn't be too hard on prostitutes but heck, we should moderate everything and make sure nobody go through a childhood trauma because we don't deserve to live in the world of traumas.
